

Message of the Supreme Leader of the Islamic Republic of Iran to Lebanese Hezbollah's Secretary-General Seyed Hassan Nasrallah

Supreme leader of the Islamic Republic of Iran Seyed Ali Khamenei felicitated the Lebanese Hezbollah's secretary-general Seyed Hassan Nasrallah for the recent victory of the Islamic resistance in Lebanon.

The supreme leader, in his message to Seyed Hassan Nasrallah, said the victory of Lebanon's Islamic resistance movement was a victory for Islam, an honor to Arab nations and a shattering of the myth of the Zionist army's invincibility. Referring to the enemy's attempts to create intolerance and doubt among the people and sow discord among Lebanese officials, Ayatollah Khamenei assured the faithful Lebanese nation that they "will be successful in thwarting these plots and will achieve a second victory."

Showering praises on Nasrallah and all Hezbollah fighters, the leader said: "I am short of words to describe what you have gifted the Islamic Ummah with your jihad and unmatched resistance. Your brave jihad, which has secured for you a divine victory, once again proves that modern and lethal weapons are inferior to faith, patience and piety." The leader stressed that a nation full of faith and belief in jihad cannot be defeated by oppressive powers. "Your victory is a victory for Islam. You proved, with your reliance on God, that military supremacy is not secured by weaponry, naval fleets, aircraft and tanks but by the power of faith and jihad bolstered by prudence and wisdom. "You proved your military supremacy over that of the Zionist regime and your spiritual superiority in the region and the world. You scorned the myth of the Zionist army's invincibility and showed the usurper regime's vulnerability."

Ayatollah Khamenei added: "you brought honor to the Arab world and realized capabilities they had not been able to exploit for decades as a result of negative propaganda and policies.
